FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Nashville, TN—November 21, 2008: Midsouth Consulting Group, a provider of payroll processing, retirement plan administration and human resources outsourcing solutions, has opened an office in Jacksonville.

“Our goal is to help employers and the advisors who guide them reap the benefits of professional administrative support,” said General Partner and CEO Jason Carpenter, who has been the driving force behind the Nashville-based company’s transformation from a boutique pension consulting firm to a provider of integrated workforce management and administration solutions. “Everything we do is designed to streamline administrative workflows.”

Midsouth Consulting Group offers tools, templates and coaching that relieve the administrative burdens of human resources, payroll and retirement plan administration. Their innovative service bundles—including the popular Employee Success Program—combine the most-needed administrative services into convenient and customizable packages. The launch of the Jacksonville office, which is headed by Mark Janowiak, is the company’s latest move in an aggressive expansion plan that includes opening offices in five other cities in the Southeast. “We have had our eye on the Jacksonville market for awhile,” Carpenter added. “We are excited about our integrated service model and look forward to working with employers and advisors in the region.”
